CHRISTMAS IS COMING!

Remember McNichols.

- Christmas is coming! That happy time To e 'eu the ones who ceaseless roam, But all the songs and every rhyme Must tell of the joy to be at home. Blessed is the careful man to-day Who builds foundation firm and strong; His happinoss files not away, But lasts indeed his whole life long.

- Christmas is coming! Prepare, prepare, Keep fires burning and lamps alight. For out in the street in darkness there Are wanderers lost in the gloomy night. Of how they wish they could be young, With only again chance to retrieve The chances lost when fortune hung Within their reach and not deceive.

- And thousands gather round the flame
 Of altars burning to success,
 And thousands utter one man's name,
 In whispers and his memory bless.
 McNichols: he who helps the poor,
 And aids and starts the honest man,
 No one need faiter at his door,
 While there's his grand installment plan.

- Don't wait for sums of princely worth,
 Before you turn the harvest loam,
 Seek now the dearest spot on earth,
 Try now to make a lasting home.
 It needs but little if you seek
 The right man—pay whate'er you can,
 This is the payment week by week,
 This glorious new installment plan.

Now what could you want more? Unless you are unnatural and want a home given to you? Here you can get all you need or want by paying down some-thing each week. Any worker can do that, and thus he shelters wife and little ones. See? (Trade Mark) THE ONLY McNICHOLS, 1015-1022-1024 Market street.

DUBLIN, Dec. 16.-Upon the application counsel, acting in behalf of Mr. Parnell's adherents, the Court here has granted an inter locutory injunction restraining the publication of the paper Suppressed United Ireland, the first edition of which was issued by the Mc-Carthyltes yesterday. A FREE FIGHT AT BALLYNAUILL.

The troubles beween the Parnellites and the McCarthyites resulted in a free fight at Ballyas high as $18 to $20, nahill to-day. A meeting was held there in the interests of Mr. Scully, the Parnell can for to-mordate. Mr. Parnell was one of the speakers. row they go and when he made his appearance he was cheered by his supporters. While this meeting was being held, another meeting, in the interest of Sir John Pope-Hennessy, the Mc-Carthyltes' nominee, was taking place a short distance away, at which addresses were being made by Mr. Davitt and Dr. Tanner. Angry speeches were made on both sides and the passion of the audiences were roused to the highest pitch by the language used by the speakers. Finally the Parnellites made an attack upon the opposition meeting. The McCarthyltes made a spirited defense, le by Mr. Davitt, Dr. Tanner and a number of priests who were at the meeting. In the melee that followed many persons on both sides were injured. Among those who were hurt was Mr. Davitt, who received a severe wound on the head at the 'hands of one of the Parnellites. The attack of the Parnellites was finally repelled.

THE IMPRISONED NATIONALISTS. At Nenaugh, County Tipperary, to-day, when the case of the Government against Mr Patrick J. O'Brien, M. P., for North Tipperary and Mr. Michael O'Brien Dalton, who are harged with assaulting the police at the time of the opening of the conspiracy trials at Tipperary, was called, it was announced that Mr. Dillon, solicitor for the defense was unable to be present, he having met with a serious accident. AT RATHDOWNEY. Mr. Parnell went to Rathdowney yes-terday, where he was joined by Messrs.

ment. Messrs. Davitt and Tanner started for Rathdowney to confront him there. A deputation of tenant farmers from the Aghadoe (Galway) branch of the League presented Parnell with an address declaring confidence in him. He made them a speech, saying he was rejoiced to see so many sterling farmers among the people rallying round him. That meant that Irishmen would nevermore submit to the dictation of Englishmen, and the seal of Kilkenny would be put on the speaker's sixteen years of work.

Mr. Harrison spoke and said the use of a woman's name by Mr. Parnell's opponents was a shame. The crowd cried "Shame!" and "Dirty Tim Healy!"

Davitt and Tanner arrived and began speak-ing from wagons in the market square. Mr. Tanner said the Irish party could not whitewash Parnell. While he was speaking Parnell drove away from the hotel in a carriage and Tanner shouted: "He is clearing out, now. Tally ho. The fox has got away." Parnell and his party drove off without any meeting.

with him in holding that the Irish party cruel attacks and retaining for Ireland the benefit of his sagncious and statesmanlike counsel, will remove any danger to the victory of Ireland at the next election in Great Britain through the retention of Mr. Parnell's leadership; that we have learned with the deepest satisfaction of Mr. Wm. O'Brien's mission to Europe for the purpose of using his efforts to produce reconciliation and we most earnestly beg Mr. Parnell and the majority of the Irish party to cordially co-operate with Mr. O'Brien's effort to produce a reunion on the lines indicated in these resolutions."

The resolution will be forwarded to Mr. Parnell.

The Envoys and the Funds.

New York, Dec. 16.—A circular letter pre pared by the Irish envoys under date of th 12th inst. has been sent to the treasurers of the evicted tenants' funds in all the places where they have spoken in this country. The circular asks that all funds remaining in their hands be sent to Dr. Joseph Kenny, M. P., and Alfred Webb, M. P. When Messrs. Dillon, O'Brien, Gill, Harrington, O'Connor and Sullivan started out on their American tour it was agreed that Messrs. Webb and Kenny should act as treasurers of the fund. The circular also states that though Kenny and Webb have taken opposite sides in the controversy among the Irish members, the money will nevertheless be distributed among the tenants.

London, Dec. 16.—Private advices from Pekin state that the Imperial Government is in desperate straits for money, but hesitates to accept the offers of many millions from capitalists who have gone there from all parts of the world to obtain the handling of a Chinese loan. It is said that Li Hung Chang holds Japan up as a horrible example to the Em eror whenever the latter shows evidences of a desire to call upon Westerners for assistance. The Japanese people have steadily declined in comfort and prosperity since the introduction of so-called reforms, and though number of prominent men are getting wealthy, the masses are in a lamentable condition. Whether this is due to the machina-tions of foreign adventurers or not, the Chinese statesmen are inclined so to regard it, likely to hasten the day when China's policy of isolation shall be abandoned.

DUBLIN, Dec. 16 .- The Royal Hotel at Kilkeet, County Down, caught fire last night and was destroyed. The fire broke out while the inmates were asleep and when they were awakened they found all the usual means of exit cut off by the flames. The proprietor and his family occupied rooms on one of the upper floors. Finding it impossible to descend by the stairs, he grasped his son and carrying him to a window threw him out. The Trouble at Boca del Toro. Colon, Dec. 15.-The difficulty at Boca Del Toro was found to be between the employe of the shipping firm of Wilson & Co., who de clared that they were being persecuted, and the local authorities. A careful and thorough investigation of all the facts in the case resulted in a most satisfactory understanding and adjustment of the troubles which had been of some years' standing. The Congo Free State.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Advices from Paris state that the French Government is bringing much pressure to bear upon Holland to pre-vent that country from acceding to the agree-ment of the powers permitting the Congo Free State to levy import duties. The time for acceding will expire Jan. 1. The motive of France is to render it impossible for the Congo Free State to meet expenses, and thereby compel the State to sell out to France, which has a first claim to purchase. The British Government, on the other hand, is resorting to threats, more or less disguised, to compel Holland to sign the treaty.

A Safe-Blower Caught. SARATOGA, N. Y., Dec. 15 .- During the past two years nearly every safe in the village of Ballston has either been broken open, blown open, tampered with or had its combination changed and in several instances safes have been robbed of valuable contents. Among the victims are Hon. George West, the post-office and A. Comstock, the safes of each of whom have been three times experimented on. The strangest part of it has been that the cracksman has been smart-enough to elude the vigilance of the detectives, but it is now believed that the mystery is about to be solved. At 90 clock on Sunday evening, Richard Cunningham, an employe of the Knickerbocker Ax and Scytheworks at Bloodville, a short distance from Ballston, went to the office to look after the fires. To his surprise he found the office door unlocked, and on making a search of the office he discovered a man in hiding. Cunningham looked him in the office, and with the assistance of some men who were passing made him prisoner. A policeman was summoned, and the burglar was taken to fall. To the great surprise of everybody he proved to be N.M. Knickerbocker, a jeweler and one of the best known business men of Ballston, with a fine store on the principal street. In searching his person the following articles were found: A dark lantern, a small wrench, a phial containing some compound, a bunch of keys and a revolver. It is believed that Knickerbocker's examination, which takes place to day, will show him to have been the man who has operated on all the safes that have been tampered with and robbed. of Ballston has either been broken open blown open, tampered with or had its com

A Boy's Terrible Crime.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 16 .- Paul Holtz, who late last night killed his father, was taken to the police station, where on being questioned he dmitted that he did the killing.

The boy denies, having affied his father for his insurance money. He says he and his father had a quarrel last night and his father had a quarrel last night and his father drove him from the house. GABRIELLE'S CONFESSION.

Not until January did they get a clue and then it was brought to them in the shape of a n from the woman. She appeared at the Prefecture of Police in Paris and gave subject to hypnotic suggestion and Dr. Bernheim will testify the same way.

Byraud has told several different stories of the case. He has written memoirs and he has destroyed them. Eyraud once confessed that he was the murderer of M. Gouffe, and that all Gabrielle Bompard has said is true. When first brought before M. Doppfer, the examining magistrate, the criminal refused to admit that he had done more than dispose of the body after the sheriff's officer had been murdered by another man. But the very improbable, not to say impossible, character of his assertions being pointed out to him by M. Doppfer, Eyraud at length exclaimed:

"Well, yes; it was I who killed Gouffe. If I commenced by declaring my innocence, it was to save the honor of my family. I wanted to prevent the crime of the husband and father sullying the innocence of my wife and daughter. I wanted to prevent people pointing at my daughter and calling her a murderer's child." Eyraud then wept and appeared to be overcome. He, however, soon recovered his self-possession, and in reply to a question from M. Doppfer, he added: "I know very well it is useless for me to attempt to deceive you. Now I am in your hands, I prefer to tell you the whole truth; but do not ask me to speak too much just mow; I am suffering terribly. I will, if you like, tell you all about it to-morrow or the next day, when I have had a little rest and feel stronger." After a pause, during which silence was preserved Eyraud added, in a firm and calm tone, "All Gabrielle Bompard has said is true. It was I who lured Gouffe to Rue Toncon Ducoudray. It was I who killed him; and it was Gabrielle who helped me to put his body into the trunk. Now do not insist on my giving you at present any further particulars; I am really too unwell." At this moment Eyraud, who was thoroughly ilk, almost fainted. While the clerk was writing his confession, Eyraud confesses and denies his confession, Eyraud confesses and denies his confession; the woman sticks to his cell at the depot.

ED T. NOLAND'S CASE

Motion by the Defense to Quash the Indictment.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 16 .- The Cole County Circuit Court convened at 9 o'clock this morning, Judge E. L. Edwards presiding. A dozen lawyers and half as many witnesses were in the court room when half an hour later the cases of embezzlement against ex. Treasurer Noland were called. W. S. Pope and C. T. Noland at once filed a motion to uash the indictments in the embezzleme cases. The motions are exactly alike, and they asked that the indictment be quashed or he following grounds:

PECULIAR DOCUMENT PREPARED BY A CLASS OF ST. LOUIS LABORERS.

It Opens a War in Which Team-Owners, Contractors and Policemen Figure— The Teamsters to Hold a Big Meeting Sunday to Perfect an Organization.

The Parnell and anti-Parnell manifesto epi demic now raging in the Emerald Isle has pread to America, has invaded St. Louis, nd infected a most worthy element of th local laboring classes. The result of the infection is two-fold. Its most significant and pronounced effect is the demonstration of citizens possessed of a grievance may go at one plunge headlong into the manifesto business. In the hands of men entirely imbue with the beauties of the manifesto, it may yet lown in history as the most fatal outcome of disastrous ease of recourse to printer's ink. wners of St. Louis assembled in solemn onclave at No. 2106 Carr street. The meeting was presided over by Team-Owner James Ryan and Team-Owner F. Wolf acted as secretary. The object of the convention was that of forming a Team Owner' Union as a means of else peaceful path of the remunerative team

TRIBULATIONS OF A TEAM-OWNER. speakers of the evening, the team-owner's lot is not a happy one. His stormy course inder existing circumstances carries him shuddering between the Scylla of a contractor who overloads his wagon with coal, sand, shuddering between the Scylla of a contractor who overloads his wagon with coal, sand, rock, lumber or some other cargo of like nature, and the Charybdis of a policeman who arrests him for being overloaded. Wreck and disaster on one or other of these points is almost certain, but should the heavily-burdened team-owner steer his creaking craft safely past both, he meets the greatest injustice at his journey's end. The contractor pockets all the profits arising from the team-owner's toil and danger, underpays the brave mariner of the city's streets, and waxes fat through an unjust oppression which the individual team owner is powerless to resist. The contractor rides in his carriage, it was stated, with excusable bitterness, while the team owner all the days of his life finds his seat on the shifting sand, the blackening coal, the sharp corners of a plank of lumber or the unresponsive and many-pointed rock. And yet it is from the proceeds of the team-owner's labor that the contractor's carriage is possible.

The meeting to protest against this unjust distribution of honest toil was an enthusiastic one. The team owners felt that they had rather be right than be team-owners. They also felt that could they reach the great ear of the public, their appeal would somehow or other result in rectifying the wrongs under which they labored. A general knowledge of the state of affairs would also impress upon all team owners the conviction that the time had come when it behooved team-owners to stand together in defense of their rights, or fall as one man from their respective vehicles.

so that the blaze of them might attract public notice?

At last one of the tram owners suggested a manifesto. It was a new weapon, the deadly qualities of which had just been demonstrated in the most forcible way by the execution it had already done in the Irish campaign. It could be fired off at one broadside, and then the tram-owners might see for themselves that a manifesto was just what they had needed. The idea "caught on."

A committee was appointed to draw up the manifesto of the Team Owners' Union. That committee consisted of F. Wolf, T. Mullen, James Ryan and Patrick Gahan, and up to Saturday night they were to fortune and to fame unknown. They now emerge into the dazzling light of fame as the authors of a public document which will be read with surpassing interest, not only by team-owners, but by the entire reading public. As finally sealed with the stamp of general approval the latest addition to the history of manifestoes reads as follows:

SITTING BULL KILLED BY INDIAN POLICE WHILE RESISTING ARREST.

The Death of the Old Sioux Medicine Man Regarded as the Beginning of the End-Confirmatory Dispatches Received From Gen. Miles-Secretary Proctor on the Situation-Two Strike Coming In-Sharp Nose Peaceful.

STANDING ROCK AGENCY, N. D., Dec. 16 .- 4 tting Bull, the famous old chief, who has for so long been a source of trouble and ana fight with the Indian police near Grand River. The fight in which the old Indian was killed was a short and severe one, but the In-dians were beaten and captured and several dians were beaten and captured and several billed.

A party of Indian police was sent out to arrest sitting Bull and his chiefs. Bull had been informed that they were coming. The police had no chance to arrest him, as they were fired upon from the tepees as soon as they appeared in sight. Three of the arresting party were killed in the fire and two so wounded that they died before they could be moved to the rear.

Then the fight began.

The police fired into the camp and the Indians scattered. Sitting Bull started up the creek and was captured. His followers made a desperate effort to rescue him, and then he was shot twice, once in the left shoulder and once through the heart.

Crow Foot, Sitting Bull's son, was also killed along with seven or eight others. The body of the dead chief was secured and is being taken to Fort Yates.

If the cavalry, which was immediately to the rear of the police, had not come up promptly then it is probable that the police would have all been killed.

It is expected now that trouble will crop out on all sides among the Sloux, but so far nothing has been heard.

Col. Corbin on Sitting Bull.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 16 .- Assistant Adjutant neral Corbin, in talking about the fight which resulted in the death of Sitting Bull, which resulted in the death of Sitting Bull, easy feeling it has aroused much apprehension. It is feared that many families of setting Bull's camp and was advised of the contemplated arrest. Gen. Miles he added, ordered this movement several days ago, because he knew that Sitting Bull's soa who was that Sitting Bull was a mischief maker, and that if he was taken into custody it would have a good effect upon all of the Indians who had been indulging in the ghost dance at his instigation. The authorites had previously relied upon his promises to come into the agency and surrender, but he had violated faith and deceived the officers. A fight was not anticipated, because it was believed there would be no resistance to the arrest, but Gen. Miles had taken the precaution to have troops on hand to assist in case of emergency. Col. Corbin here referred to the letter from Agent McLaughlin, which appeared in these dispatches this morning, in which he relates facts ascertained upon a visit to Sitting Bull's Camp. The agent had previously protected and defended Sitting Bull, but this visit to his camp seems to have changed his visit to his camp seems to have changed his visit to his camp seems to have changed his visit to his camp seems to have changed his visit to his camp seems to have changed his visit to have always had the better of it at the outset. "The Indians have always had the better of that the outset. Gen. Miles made up his mind to have the advantage if there was to be any fighting this time. The troops are stationed at all points in the Black Hills. This fight took place at Sitting Bull's camp on the Grand River, about forty miles Southwest from standing Rock Agency, in a section of the country little traveled.

"The first time I saw Sitting Bull," remarked the Colonel, "was thirteen year ago. I was on a commission with Gen. Terry and we met him near Port Walsh. He was then about 40 years of age. He has never been a chief, nor even a warrior of a high order. In the Custer massacre and in the fight with keno, he skipped with his people and got away from danger. He has been a leader in organizing the ghost dance and has taken advantage of the religious craze to send emissaries to different bands to induce them to make the trouble. The purpose was to assemble the warriors in the spring, and with he aid of the Messiah bring back to life all of their dead Indians and restore the country to all its pristine glory. Sitting Bull was a hrewd politician, and took advantage of the prevalent sentimental feeling. He tosk his children out of school and gathered about him the small band he had in this secluded lace, where he believed he would not be disturbed. It was necessary to take steps to arrest him." It was necessary to take steps to ar

Col. Corbin said he believed the events of the day would be beneficial. Gen. Miles started from St. Paul last night for beadwood, going by way of Standing Rock. He wired that Two Strike had come to Gen. Brooke's camp at Pine Ridge and surrendered with a portion of his band, but that 200 bucks were out.

with a portion of his band, but that 200 bucks were out.

BEGINNING OF THE END.

Up to 12 o'clock to-day no further news had been received at headquarters of the United States army in this city in regard to the Indian situation in the Northwest. Speaking of the death of Sitting Buil, Adjt.-Gen. Corbin said to a reporter that it was probably the beginning of the end of the trouble.

"'Of course," he continued, "it is impossible to forcast with accuracy just how it will affect his followers, but the probabilities are that it will discourage them. Sitting Buil was making 'big medicine' and giving them to understand othat he "stood in' with the Great Spirft, who wouldprotect them against the bulkets of the soldiers. Now, on learning that his 'medicine' is not powerful enough to protect himself, and that he has been the first to be toppled over by a bullet, his influence will be gone. They are in a position to learn of his death about as soon as we are, and I fancy they will'all come to the agency within the next two or three days. If they do not Gen. Brooke has things in shape to make short work of them. They are penned up in the Bad Lands where nobody lives, and where they can do no damage. Of course, some of the young bucks may come out and raid a few ranches in the neighborhood, but they cannot do much damage. It it is probable that Gen. Brooke moved against them this morning, and even if it comes to a fight I do not expect the war to last more than four or five days."

Confirmed by Gen. Miles noon Gen. Schofield made public two dis from Gen. Miles dated at St. Paul

Dec. 15. The first one received says:

"The commanding officer at Fort Yates
(Standing Rock) telegraphs to Gen. Ruger as follows:

"Courier just in from Capt. Fechet reports cavairy within three milles of Sitting Bull's camp and pushing on. The Indian police arrested Sitting Bull about daylight, when Sitting Bull's friends attempted to rescue him. Sitting Bull reported killed at once and the fight became general. A number of best policemen reported killed and probably a number of others. The courier who brought word was in the fight and saw sitting Bull on the ground and is sure he is dead. Policemen reported nearly out of ammunition, but cavalry undoubtedly reached them within half an hour of receiving word. There are 100 cavalrymen, with one Hotchkiss and one Gatlin gun, commanded by Capt. Fechet. It will move out with two companies of infantry this afternoon as far as Oak Creek, leaving Capt. Miner with his company to guard the post."

Gen. Miles adds that information was received that Sitting Bull was preparing to leave and that orders had been given to secure his person. The other dispatch from Gen. Miles concludes the story as follows:

"Capt. Fechet arrived in good time at scene of Indian fight and drove Indians away; also had surrounded all that remained. He reports the death of Sitting Bull and his son Black Bird, Catch Bear and four others; also seven policemen killed. He reports that he has body of Sitting Bull."

ACTIVITY AT THE WAR DEFARTMENT.

seven policemen killed. He reports that he has body of Sitting Bull."

ACTIVITY AT THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

War Department officials were busy all day receiving and answering telegrams on the Indian situation. A feeling of gratification seemed to pervade the department over the death of Sitting Bull, who was regarded as the brains of the recent Indian uprising. The effect of his death was very generally discussed, but rather in the light of apprehension for the future. Secretary Proctor said this afternoon that no action was necessary on the part of the War Department in regard to the killing of Sitting Bull, the army officers on the scene being fully conversant with all the facts and fully competent to deal with the case- He said be thought that Sitting Bull's death would draw the line between the disaffected Indians and the peaceful Indians sharper than it had been and would probably result in a speedier adjustment of the difficulty. Gen. Schofield was asked this morning for his views on the Indian situation, and he said he did not care to talk about it now, preferring to await the development of the next few days. The situation, he said, was very complicated and its settlement could not forestell, he said, the effect of Sitting Bull's death on the malcontents, but was satisfied that it would undoubtedly strengthen the loyalty of the friendly Indians. Gen. Schofield said he had strong hopes that the troops would be able to close in on the hostiles and end the matter without conflict. It was a matter of satisfaction to him that the only conflicts so far had been between Indians and that troops had not been called into action.

Secretarry Proctor left the War Department this morning early for the White House and laid before the Cabinet meeting all the information on the Indian trouble in his possession.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 16 .- The Jour nal's Bismarck special says: The country roundabout is terribly wrought up over the killing of Sitting Bull; instead of creating ar easy feeling it has aroused of creating an easy feeling it has aroused much apprehension. It is feared that many families of settlers will feel the vengeance of Sitting Bull's followers. Sitting Bull's son who was killed was a bright youth only 12 years old. It is expected that the settlers will fock to Bismarck and Mandan by the hundreds as soon as the news of Sitting Bull's death is known. THE FINANCIAL STATUS.

KET TO-DAY. Stronger Feeling Caused by the Presidents' Meeting, but Disquieting Reports From England Depress Prices— Rumored Call for Gold From the Bank of France-An Uncertain Market. NEW YORK, Dec. 16 .- The harmony that prealled at the meeting of railroad presidents at the Morgan residence yesterday had a most ncouraging effect, not only on the stock market, but throughout financial circles, and many were heard to predict that the financial stringency would soon be a thing of the past. Yesterday's market was essentially a waiting tered on the railroad magnates, and the keenest interest was manifested in the result of their deliberations. A BETTER FEELING. Both bulls and bears were timid in regard to investing until the result of the conference was known, and consequently the prices showed very few fluctuations. The readiness with which the presidents agreed upon the outline of a plan, and the unanimity of views expressed by them, was considered as indica-tive of the success of the agreement, but even more confidence was inspired by the knowl edge that in future the fixing of railroad

rates would not be left entirely in the railroad men, but bankers and capitalists who were interested not in a single line, but in the prosperity of all, would have to be consulted before any rate war should be inaugurated. The rough plan of agreement to be submitted to the different boards of directors was eagerly discussed on the street this morning, the opinion being expressed vision practically taking out of the hands of power of establishing rates, and lodging it in the hands of a central board in which the financiers of Wall street would be represented.

THE PRESIDENTS' MEETING. The most unfavorable feature of the situa-tion is the refusal of the Chicago & Alton tion is the refusal of the Chicago & Alton to join in the agreement, and not a few predict that its maintenance will be difficult, if not impossible, with so influential a line holding aloof. The good effects of the presidents' meeting were felt this morning in the large increase of the time money available. Bankers increased their loans to mercantile houses, and for the first time in many days bankers generally were willing to make purchases for their customers on margins. The absence of this sustaining power has had not a little to do with the low prices at which railroad stocks have recently been held in spite of the excellent showing made for November by most of the lines.

DEALING ON MARGINS REMOYED.

DEALING ON MARGINS REMOVED. Margin speculation, it is well known, is generally for a rise, and the removal of this feature from the market has had a depressing effect. The Majestic will arrive from England this week with nearly $5,000,000 in gold, and the general tone of the market is decidedly the general tone of the market is decidedly stronger than it was yesterday. Nearly everyone predicts better prices unless heavy commercial failures should occur to complicate the situation. DISQUIETING RUMORS FROM ABROAD.

It was a fortunate thing that confidence was in a measure restored by the result of the presidents' meeting, as shortly before the opening of trading very disquieting telegrams presidents' meeting, as shortly before the opening of trading very disquieting telegrams from Europe were received. They were principally in the nature of rumors and did not pretend to be absolutely authentic, but their effect would have been to send prices down rapidly had it not been for the strong tone of this market. As it was, they not only overcame the anticipated advance, but also caused a decline. The rumors were to the effect that the Bank of France had called upon the Bank of England to restore the $10,000,000 in gold recently borrowed, and that in consequence the directors of the Bank of England would, at their meeting on Thursday next, advance the discount rates.

There was a marked selling improvement at the opening and opening prices were in almost all cases fractionally lower than last night's figures, while Rock Island was down I per cent. Further losses were sustained and Missouri Pacific, the only active stock which opened higher, retired 1½ to 60%. At the lowest prices, however, St. Paul was down 1 3-8 from last night, Union Pacific, 1½; L. & N., 1%; Northern Pacific preferred, 1; Burlington, 1%, and Rock Island, 1½. The market was comparatively quiet, all the business being in nine or ten of the leading shares, while others were neglected. The selling was resumed with increased vigor late in the hour and the market at 11 o'clock was weak at the lowest prices reached.

Money was easy at 4%5 per cent. The stock and the market at 11 o'clock was weak at the lowest prices reached.

Money was easy at 4@5 per cent. The stock market after 11 o'clock continued quiet and narrow while prices reached still lower figures all over the list, the decline in Union Pacific being most conspicuous, and at 93% it was 2% per cent below last night's price. There was a better feeling toward noon, but there was no recovery of importance, and at 12 o'clock the market was still heavy and quiet at the lowest prices of the morning.

A BANK FAILS.

Clearfield County (Pa.) Bank closed its door this morning. The depositors are made saft by a mortgage on real estate for three time the amount of deposits. The owner of the bank, ex-United States Senator William Wallace, has appointed J. S. McCarroll of Harrisburg, W. F. Wallace and A. O. Smith of Clearfield assignees. The liabilities are $350, 100; assets, $650,000.

Clear field assignees. The Habilities are 2004, 2000; assets, $650,000.

The stock market was dull, narrow, and displayed even less feature than during the forencon after 12 o'clock, and prices in many cases reached still lower figures, though the declines from the lowest of the forencon were insignificant. The downward movement was checked before 1 p. m., however, and small fractional gains were made in most of the list. The only really strong point in the list, however, was Lackawanna which recovered 114 per cent to 1274. The upward movement made no further progress, and toward 2 p. m. prices again dropped, and at 2:15 the market was still duil and heavy at about the lowest prices of the day. Prices were as follows:

discount in the open market for both short and three months bills, 3% per cent.

The reason given by Mr. Wallace for the assignment is the excessive tightness in the money market and inability to obtain money to meet his obligations.

The Clearfield County Bank was a private concern, Mr. Wallace being the President and John W. Adams, Cashier. The bank was several years ago a State institution, but had been directed to wind up the old business and did nothing but a collecting and exchange bashness. The depositors have been secured by a judgment bond and mortgage on valuable coal lands in this county to Thos. H. Murray, A. W. Lee, W. W. Betts and John M. Troxell as trustees. A certified list of the depositors was made out last night and the sums aggregated $475,000. The security is double the indebtedness. The assets of this concern go into the personal assigned estate of Mr. Wallace. The entire indebtedness of Senator Wallace is put down at near $400,000 and his assets $600,000. The two other banks in this place, the County National and First National, have no fear of a run being made on them, but, nevertheless, have fortified themselves with cash from Eastern banks.

Clews on Silver Legislation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 .- Henry Clews has adlressed an open letter to the Secretary of the Treasury in which he makes one or two novel. regret that he had been un e to express his views on his recent visit to city, Mr. Clews says, on the silver mat-

the city, Mr. Clews says, on the silver matter:

"Congress should amend the present silver in by inserting a clause giving the Secretary of the Treasury authority to change, at his discretion, the periods of the purchase of silver. At present the law provides for 4,500,000 ounces each month, which is absolute. In place of this, to provide for the present money crisis, substitute, at the Secretary's discretion, authority to purchase a double amount in December, equal to 9,000,000 ounces, and the same for January, February and March, and suspend the purchase entirely; to provide for the same in the months of April, May, June and July next. I suggest this because now is the time this increase in silver certificates will satisfy the present need and cry for more circulating medium and if issued as proposed will entirely remove the necessity of adding to or in any way changing the present silver law as it now exists. What is important for the people of the country to know for a certainty is that they can rely upon the present law being permanent and not subject to changes at the convening of every Congress. When the present law has been in existence a year, it will bring out the new silver money, aggregating in amount about $60,000,000 and each year thereafter an equal sum. In ten years from the date of the passing of the act the amount of this money will be about $600,000, .000. This annual increase, I am of the opinion, will be ample for that class of money, and it would be unwise to increase it. It certainly will be sufficient if Congress will also pass at an early date Senator Sherman's bill, which provides for National bank bills to be issued up to the par value of the United States bonds. This will increase that class of money about $15,000,000. 'Congress should amend the present silver par value of the United States bonds. This will increase that class of money about $15,000,000. A speedy passing of the latter act of Congress would be unanimously considered as wise and judicious legislation, and especially as the Government, under the present law restricting bonds to be received at 90 cents on the dollar, is not only a hardship to the banks in having to put up a large amount of capital as margin, but at the same time it puts the Government in the false position of discrediting its own securities on being willing to take the bonds at 90 as security, when they are seiling on the market 128. UNSOLVED MYSTERIES.

me Remarkable Testimony Brought Out This Morning, but Nothing Which Would Throw Any Light on the Case— Brenner Fails to Remember Anything

Some interesting testimony was given at he Coroner's office to-day at the inquest held the case of Henry Hartman, who was murdered under such mysterious circumstances n the yard in the rear of his residence at 280 Lemp avenue about 3 o'clock Sunday morning. John C. Brenner and the two mino sons of the deceased are under arrest for the

About 11 o'clock this morning the inquest was commenced after a number of witnesses had given evidence bearing indirectly on the merits of the case. Henry Brenner, the aged father of one of the prisoners took the stand.
"You are the father of John C. Brenner, are ou not?" asked Deputy Coroner Meade.
"I am sorry to say I am," was the answer.

Mr. Brenner then went on to tell what little he knew of the case. He said that to the best of his knowledge his son had returned home about 2 o'clock Sunday morning and had gone in and out of the house several times. The witness did not get out of bed and went to sleep while his son was walking around.

Mrs. Katherine Brenner, the mother of the prisoner, gave some strong testimony against her son. She said that Brenner was drunk when he came home about 2 o'clock Sanday morning and broke two lamps and several lamp-chimneys, because they did not burn to suit him. She testified that her son first went out in about fifteen minutes and returned almost immediately. Ten minutes later he went out again after going to his room. The next she saw of him was after 4 o'clock in the morning when he was brought in by a policeman. She then helped him to disrobe and go to bed. The witness further testified that her son and Mrs. Hartman were on what she considered a in and out of the house several times. The helped him to disrobe and go to bed. The witness further testified that her son and Mrs. Hartman were on what she considered a little too good terms. Once she had found in her son's pocket a note from Mrs. Hartman saying that she wanted to see him that night in the alley. She had never seen the two together much; she did not remember ever seeing the revolver found near Hartman's body.

Mrs. Schmidt, a married sister of Brenner. Ilving at 1616 South Twelfth street, testified that the relations existing between her brother and Mrs. Hartman were more than suspicious. The said that once she had gone to her brother's shop and found Mrs. Hartman hiding behind a pile of rubbish in one corner of the place.

Mrs. Hartman, the wife of the deceased, said she knew nothing of the trouble until the shots were fired. She said her husband had been out all night, and she and the children were in bed at the time of the shooting. She denies any intimacy with Brenner, but admitted giving him the pistol. She first gave him the weapon almost three years ago. One day a month ago her husband wanted to go into the country and she got the revolver for him from Brenner, returning it about ten days later. She said her husband wanted to go into the country and she got the revolver for him from Brenner, returning it about ten days later. She said her husband was apt to be very troublesome when under the influence of liquor. Both of her sons were in bed at the time of the shootling.

Lena Hartman corroborated that portion of her mother's tertimony relating to her brother's saying that the boys had gone to bed early and did not get up until after the shots had been fired.

Ernest Hartman, a 10-year-old son of the deceased, flatly contradicted the statements he made yesterday to Detectives Archambault, Tracy and Connors to the effect that his mother has often sent him with notes to Brenner. He also denied that he had ever seen his mother and Brenner together. The detectives freely expressed the opinion that the boy had been "fixed" since they had had the conversation with him.

BRENNER REMEMBERS NOTHING.

The prisoner, John O. Brenner, then took the stand. He denied any intimacy whatever with Mrs. Hartman and insisted that his sister had never seen Mrs. Hartman in his shop. He also denied that Mrs. Hartman in his shop. He also denied that Mrs. Hartman in his shop. He also denied that Mrs. Hartman in his shop. He also denied that Mrs. Hartman in his shop. He also denied that Mrs. Hartman had given him the revolver found by the side of the deceased and said that if he ever had he weapon he must have found it in the garret. This was the best explanation he could give as to his possession of the gun. He said he had spent the greater part of the night at Bothe's saloon, leaving at almost 3 o'clock in the morning and going directly to his home. Hartman had been in the saloon but had gone before he left. He was too intoxicated to remember what he did when he reached home and remembered nothing in regard to where he went when he left the place. When he came to his senses he was in bed.

Officer Flesh testified to finding Brennan asleep on the sidewalk at Ninefeenth and Lynch streets about 4 o'clock in the morning. He took the man home and turned him over to his mother.

Brennan was then recalled, and admitted

He took the man home and turned him over to his mother.

Brennan was then recalled, and admitted that he had had trouble with Hartman last August. He said that he had given the deceased employment and they disputed about business affairs. Hartman, he alleges, insulted him in a crowd and he slapped him in the face.

The two sons of the deceased, William and Henry Hartman, state they were in bed at the time of the shooting. The boys are evidently innocent of any complicity in the killing.

The Coroner's jury, after hearing all the testimony, retired and in a short time returned a verdict that Henry Hartman' death was caused by wounds indicted on hibody by some person or persons unknown.

THE CORONER'S VERDICT ADDS IT TO THE THE DIRECTORS OF THE FAIR ASSOCIA-TION ELECT NEW OFFICERS.

Mr. Charles Green Retires and Mr. Wells ceeds Him-The New President Dis cusses the Future Prospects of the Association—It Will Be Made a Popular Institution-The Financial Situation.

The Directors of the St. Louis Fair Associa tion held a meeting this morning in accordance with the notice previously sent out and elected Mr. Rolla Wells President; L. M. Rumsey, President; Charles C. Mamtt, First Vice-President: Ellis Wainwright, Third Vice President, and A. B. Ewing, Treasurer. The secretaryship is held open and will be filled later. The meeting was attended by all the directors the city. Those who were present were Messrs. Charles Green, Wells, C. C. Maffitt, L. M. Rumsey Alvah Mansur, James Green, Ellis Wain wright, Gen. John W. Turner and Wm. F.

The election of officers was the business of importance outside of the usual matters pertaining to the manors had to consider, and it went off smoothly The plan of reorginization which was discussed was the one suggested by Mr. Green at the request of the directors. THE NEW PRESIDENT.

Mr. Wells was seen after the meeting ad fourned and when spoken to about the election he said: "Yes, it is true that the directors conferred the honor of the presidency upon me and I shall endeavor to do my part in making the association successful. It is quite an undertaking and there is a great deal of work to be done, but I shall try to accomplish all I can."

"Will there be any marked change in the management of the association?"

"I am too young a President to give any information as to details. Neither the Board of Directors nor myself have had an opportunity yet to determine upon anything. I can only say in a general way that we now have an active Board of Directors, and that we will do everything in our power to make whatever we undertake a success, whether it be the Fair, the race meeting or anything else. We cannot do it alone, however, and we must look for support to the people, the press and the railroads.

The association is not a private enterprise, but a public one, intended to bring people to the city and State and to advertise St. Louis and Missouri. It therefore deserves the support and encouragement of the community, and while we shall do everything in our power to popularize the association, we shall in turn expect the people to assist and supdo my part in making the association success

"What are the association's financial pros-

"What are the association's financial prospects?"
"Very good, indeed, better than for years. When the capital was increased some months ago that increased the authorized bonded indebtedness and enabled us to issue a 5 per cent bond, which will enable us to retire the 6 add 7 per cent bonds at maturity with a great saving of annual interest.

These bonds, too, will absorb the floating debt and leave the finances in a very satisfactory condition. Under the new arrangement the saving of interest will be very great, and that itself will be a considerable improvement of the Association's condition. We are well satisfied with the financial condition, and feel assured that the Association will not be troubled on that account in the future."

Mr. Wells, the new President, was treasurer of the association for several years. He is one of the most successful young business men in the city, and he has attained prominence through his connection with the successful management of large institutions. He was actively connected with the management of the Missouri Raliroad Co. (the Olive street line) and since the retirement of his father, Mr. Erastus Wells, on account of his health, Mr. Wells has managed his father's affairs in addition to his duties as Treasurer of the Fair Association.

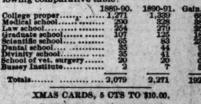

nis nearth, air. Weils as managed his latturer's affairs in addition to his duties as Treasurer of the Fair Association.

How it CAME ABOUT.

The election of Mr. Weils grows out of the complications which have recently arisen concerning the management of the association. They first began when the obligations of the association began to fall due and steps had been taken to meet them. Then the increase of capital stock, to which Mr. Weils referred, was voted. There were rumors, too, that the property of the association was to be abandoned for fair purposes and made the basis of a real estate speculation. These and other matters threw the affairs of the association into a rather galed state and it was necessary to find some way to straighten them out. The Board of Stockholders then concluded to leave the matter to Mr. Green, and he suggested the plan which was eventually carried out. Messrs. L. M. Rumsey, John T. Davis and Charles R. Parsons were chosen trustees and a majority of the stock was placed in their hands under an agreement by virtue of which they hold and vote the stock for ten years, thus choosing the directors of the association This was done to demonstrate to the public that the Fair Association's property would not be sold or speculated with, at least not for ten years. Some days ago the trustees had a meeting and elected the Board of Directors, putting in four new men. The new directors were Gov. D. R. Francis, Wm. F. Nolker, C. C. Montint, Ellis Wainwright and Gen. John W. Turner. The meeting to-day was the first one of the new board, held for the purpose of organing.

A Ghastly Ceremony.

The ancient and ghostly ceremony of the religious brotherhood known as "Of the Souls in Purgatory," in the Republic of Marino, was performed for the last time last month. The brothers, dressed in black, with masks and torches, carry a skeleton stretched on a white sheet on a bler about the town, winding up with a sort of Danse Macabre. The bishops and the civil authorities, with, it is said, the sanction of the Pope, have ordered that the dance shall never be held again.

HAMPTON AND INGALLS. There is a good deal of fantastic theorizing about the significance of IRBY's election over Senator HAMPTON, and probably the most fantastic theory is that the "poo whites'' of South Carolina have at last re olted against "patrician" rule. If this explains the movement of South Carolina farmers against HAMPTON, it also explains the movement of the Kanas farmers against INGALIS. The same Democratic farmers who have heretofore lected HAMPTON now choose to elect IRBY, and the same Republican farmer who have hitherto elected INGALIS have elected an anti-Ingalls majority to the Kansas Legislature, and the obvious and openly declared reason is the same in both both HAMPTON and INGALIS having voted on the silver question and other money questions so as to please the plutocrats of the East and to offend the farmers, Northern and Southern, Republican and Democratic. The farmer platform, which HAMPTON opposed, was adopted by the Democratic voters of South Carolina, and the majority for it at the polls made the defeat of HAMP-TON by one of its supporters a foregone conclusion. INGALIS succeeded in holding the Republican party of Kansas aloof from and antagonistic to the farmers' movement. He kept the latter from cap turing the Republican organization in his State as it captured the Democratic organization in South Carolina, but he could not keep it from capturing the Legislature and all but one of the Kansas seats in Congress, and his defeat for re-election will signify, in precisely the same sense as HAMPTON's, a revolt "of the poor whites against patrician rule."

WE feel assured of the gratification of our readers over the POST-DISPATCH'S new and improved dress of type. This change of type would have been made earlier had it not been for plans looking to the adoption of typesetting machines. Owing to further necessary delay in the accomplishment of these plans, however, it was thought best to give the Posr-Dis-PATCH readers the benefit of fresh, clear type pending the completion of arrangements for using machines, and thus relieve them of the inconvenience and strain upon the eyes occasioned by the old type. The improvement in the attractiveness of the paper and the ease with which it may be read was great yesterday, but it will be greater within a few days, when the use of the type makes it possible to secure the best results.

THE killing of SITTING BULL removes one of the greatest obstacles to the maintenance of permanent peace among the Northwestern Indians. The old Chief has less, unscrupulous Indian with a thorough hatred for the whites and an unconquerable desire to lead his people to war. As one of the principal chiefs whose bands exterminated Gen. Custer and his command in the Black Hills he has had great influence with the unsatisfied Sioux and hence has been regarded as a dangerous and disturbing element. He was the leader of the Messiah movement which his death discredits and discourages. As it marked the settlement of a long score of cruel and bloody deeds it will probably begin the final pacification of the unfriendly Indians.

Mr. T. J. Finigan, who is the proprietor of produce commission house at 1029 North and street, is bemoaning the loss of a trusted employe, but he grieves less over the able drafts which went with him. The man s Henry Gebhardt, who has been a produce buyer on North Third street for years. He started the gossips to work. Gebhardt went North on a buying trip last month, and he was furnished with money for his examunicated with his employers since Dec. , but Mr. Finigan has heard of him in such a way that it leaves no doubt about what has become of him. He disappeared, however, just too soon to catch a second draft which was sent him. Mr. Finigan was found at his place of business, and when asked about the disappearance of Gebhardt he said:

"He left here for St. Paul on Nov. 19 to buy up a lot of potatoes, and when he went away I gave him $50 for expenses and two drafts for $500 each. They answered that he had bought two car loads in his own name but had not taken them or paid for them. He handled money for them, and everyone regarded him as a thoroughly everyone regarded min as a thoroughly reliable man. GUESTS FROM YALE.

The President and Glee Club to Visit St Louis.

Two approaching events are awaited with great interest by the graduates of Yale resident in St. Louis, the visit of President Timothy Dwight and the appearance of the Yale Glee and Banjo Clubs. Yale was the first university to inaugurate the vacation ater addition. The club will appear in this later addition. The club will appear in this city on the evening of Dec. 31, and steps have been already taken by the resident alumni in which not only insures an immense audience, but also secures for the undergraduates a most hearty social reception. The Glee and Banjo Clubs of this year are pronounced by all who have heard them, to be of unusual excellence. President Dwight will be entertained by the Yale Alumni Association on Jan. 2.

The fourth historical lecture on the Smith foundation, Washington University, was ven last evening at Memorial Hall by Mr. Thomas Dimmock. Subject: "Four Revolulutions." The lecturer was introduced by Prof. Snow, Acting Chancellor of the University, and after some prefatory remarks upon evolution and its influence in shaping the political and social, as well as physical, development of the race, proceeded to apply the evolutionary theory to the four most important revolutions of modern times: that in Holland in the sixteenth century, out of which came the Dutch Republic; the English revolution of the seventeenth century; our own in the eighteenth, and finally the French revolution in 1728. They were compared to four links in a mighty chain, and the intimate connection between them was clearly shown by the evidence of were compared to four links in a mighty chain, and the intimate connection between them was clearly shown by the evidence of acknowledged historical facts. This fundamental idea of the lecture is somewhat novel, and was worked out with a completeness and force which bore testimony to a large amount of preliminary preparation in the shape of axtended reading and careful thought.

Mr. Dimmock's audience paid him the highest compliment that can be bestowed upon any speaker—the closest possible attention

The Grain Inspection Department Change Hands Dec. 31—Political. Joseph O'Shea, the new State Grain In spector, will take charge of that department on the sist inst., when Mr. Burks will step down and out to take his seat in the State Senate which meets Jan. 7 next. Preparing to Take Charge.

Sheriff-elect Staed has completed his lis f deputies and will have it ready for of deputies and will have it ready for the Circuit Judges some days before he takes charge. Sheriff Pohlman's term expires with the year and by that time the new official's list of assistants will have been approved by the judges in General Term. This will leave Sheriff elect Staed prepared to take charge the first thing on the morning of Jan. 2.

The rush for depayships has been something remarked to the first thing on the payons the sheriff here.

The rush for depatyships has been something remarkable. Though the Sheriff has only thirty appointments to make, Mr. Staed has received more than 500 applications. He has been besieged on all sides and has had a decidedly interesting time of it with the applicants and their friends.

The interest in the Speakership contest for the lower branch of the General Assembly which meets Jan. 7, is now attracting wide spread interest. Leading politicians say tha the contest now practically rests between the contest now practically rests between Representative Wilbur Tuttle of Pettes, and Ed Turner of Clinton, though Representatives Farris and Fogle are still mentioned. Both of the leaders have worked hard for the votes of the eleven Democratic members in the St. Louis delegation, but if is not yet settled how they will vote. They will aim, however to get on the winning side so as to get good committee places.

The scramble for the positions goes merrily on and promises to develop an abundance of excitement in the canvas. The same can be said of the race for the positions the Senate will have within its gift.

THAT IS HOW A. B. STICKNEY CHARAC-TERIZES RAILEOAD PRESIDENTS.

The Statement Recalls to Mr. Gould's Mind Information of the Proceedings at the

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 .- The Sun says the one oad that stood against the agreement dopted at the meeting of Railroad Presidents at Mr. Morgan's residence yesterday, was the Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas City road, through the influence of Mr. Stickney, its former President. Mr. Stickney is said to have aired his opinions very freely about the together two years ago, he said, in the same way, and they had done nothing since but to cheat each other at every move. This diaogue is reported to have taken place.

Mr. Stickney: "I believe that all the Presi dents here are honorable gentlemen, and as private individuals I would trust them with any amount of money. But as heads of railroads they are a lot of scoundrels and I would not believe them under oath; neither would I trust them with a cent out of my sight," hat you would not trust us with your monin your capacity as President, or since you resigned that office?"

Mr. Gould: "That reminds me of an ex rience of Daniel Drew's during the fine panic of 1857. He happened to be in a little old-fashioned Methodist church in John street during a revival service, and his attention was riveted on a man who was telling dled men out of their money in the street. He said it was the most wonderful thing he ever heard of that the Lord could save such a nudged the person next to him and asked: Who is the man that led such a reckles

"That's Daniel Drew ' was the renly ." as any of the presidents with the progress complished more than we ever did at any three meetings, and there was more wealth represented than at any previous gathering that I know of. One of the president reckoned up that it amounted to $3,000,000, reckoned up that it! amounted to $3,000,000,000,000, or three-eighths of the entire railroad capital of the United States in bona fide bonds and stocks. The result of the meeting was looked forward to with much more interest than any other similar affair that I remember. Capitalists in Europe are particularly anxious to hear whether we have decided to put the Western roads on a sound financial basis after the indifferent returns of the past couple of years. I feel more confident than I anticipated that at last we shall work together harmonlously.

I anticipated that at last we shall work together harmoniously.

Will be more like the Trunk Line Association than to any other in existence, and it will aim to work in harmony with it and the Central Traffic Association, which two embrace all the midland roads east of Chicago and St. Louis. We want to take in everything west of those points to the Pacific and work in harmony with them at the junction points. I believe that we have sufficient assurance from the Alton that it will come in as soon as we get them on a solid basis and it finds we intend to live up to the agreement. Mr. Stickney of the St. Paul & Kansas City road refused to sign the agreement at first, but after some pleading with him, showing him that he was setting himself against the combined west, and that the small showing of his road would be laid at his door by stockholders, he asked that he would give the metter fur-

They will meet and choose from their own number an Executive Committee which will have active control. The question of a commissioner was not considered; it will be taken up after the association is put upon its feet by the action of the Boards of Directors of the different roads, which will be accomplished by Jan. 1. The Presidents and others who attended the meeting to-day are expected to sign the agreement some time tomorrow at the office of Direct, Morgan & Co. Inasmuch as the old Interstate Commerce Railway Association and all the subordinate Western associations will give way to the new Western Kailway Association, there is a general desire that Commissioner A. MR. J. M'COOK of the Atchison Board of Directors, who was conspicuous in outlining the new agreement, said that he thought the outlook was auspicious. Never before had the railroads of the West been so ready to place the traffic on a uniform basis, and he thought that all the presidents in attendance were thoroughly in earnest. He said that the association would embrace the strongest features of both the Central Traffic and Trunk Line Associations, copies of both of whose agreements they had before them.

President Ashley of the Wabash thought that the association would be placed upon its feet and all the traffic west of Chicago would in time probably be regulated by differentials so that the small roads would no longer be tempted to cut rates.

The Presidents' Agreement. New York, Dec. 16.—At the meeting of Western railroad presidents here yesterday at J. Pierrepont Morgan's residence the fol

All roads represented voted in favor of the adoption of the resolution except the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City which was excused from voting. It was also ordered, that the Chicago & Aiton, Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas roads be also invited to join in the agreement. It was resolved that President Roswell Miller of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul be made chairman of the adjourned meeting with power to call the first meeting of the Advisory Board. It was also requested that the boards of directors of the various roads act on the resolutions before Jan. 1.

A GREAT DISAPPOINTMENT.

I find the excitement over the 'discovery' to be confined almost exclusively to he United States. There is in reality no extrement in Germany over it, and but little in professional circles in England. There is, of course, great medical interest in his experiments, but the sensible stand is aken that so far they are may experiments, and the best thing or the profession to do is to wait the result of Pr. Koch's own work before accepting the latement that a 'consumption cure' has sen found at last. So cool are the German hysicians over the Berlin experiments that though I talked with many of them in The lague, Rotterdam and Amersterdam, and at anover, I never once thought of such a ning as procuring some of the lymph for xperiment in this country. Indeed, I screed with the European view of the matter, that the professional world should wait null Koch himself had demonstrated its success. KOCH'S DISCOVERY FORESHADOWED.

The paper read by Koch before the Intertonal Medical Congress in Berlin only foredowed his hopes from experiments he had direct solar light destroyed the microbe bacillus, and he consequently inferred that consumption is best treated by open air and sunstine. He recommended that consumption to be successful to be successful to be treated by antiseptic means, and that such cases be sent to proper sanitariums, established either by the Government or by private bequests. He advocated experimenting upon the vitality of the bacillus with such agents as could check its development. He spoke of certain oils, aniline dyes, aromatic compounds and cyanide of gold, and said he thought he was finding certain other substances that possessed the property of breaking the tubercular tissues so as to thereby check the disease. This was about the substance of his paper as we understood it.

PROBABLE INGREDIENTS OF THE LYMPH. "Last October, however, came his announcement to the world that he had discovered a remedy for consumption, but he violates professional ethics by keepingthat a remedy a profound secret. I believe it to consist, as has been stated, of the ptomaines of tubercular bacilli, or, in other words, of the decomposed bacilli, and possibly cyanide of gold and other ingredients not yet definitely known. The professional world will do well, however, to wait patiently for final and conclusive result of Koch's own experiments."

CITY HALL NEWS.

What Is Necessary to Get a Street Lamp in Carondelet-Notes. There is a part of St. Louis the city officials call the "Carondelet Gas Co's. territory." It begins at the south, where the electric lights stop, and goes down to the grassy, banks of the River Des Peres. A few days ago the question arose in the Board of Public Improvements as to how the Board of Public Improvements as to how the city should proceed to have another gas comp put up. To solve this problem it received the combined efforts of the six members of the Board of Public Improvements, the Mayor, the City Counselor and the Supervisor of City Lighting.

The Street Commissioner had the authority once, but somehow the Supervisor of City Lighting got mixed up with it, and the Street Commissioner's authority was gone.

The question has been solved, however, and now it is possible for citizens there to get lamps if they wait long enough and if the gas company don't object.

The way to do it is very simple. A citizen thinks the street in front of his house needs another gas lamp, so he posts up to the City Hall and finds the office of the Supervisor of City Lighting. Here he is cross-questioned, and finally given a blank petition. Then he posts back to Carondelet and lays out the location of the lamp and then takes the petition around to the neighbors to sign. After the signatures are all secured he takes another trip to the City Hall and presents his petitions ahead taken up. The supervisor looks over a whole lot of maps and measures things with a string and then sends an inspector on a tour of discovery. The inspector first looks over the ground and then, figuratively speaking, under it, to learn if the company has mains there. When the explorations and surveys are done the inspector returns from Carondelet and consults the Supervisor. If they agree that the citizen is to be granted the privilege of getting what he ought to have, the Supervisor sends the petition to the Board of Public Improvements with his indorsement. Teen the board at a regular meeting refers it to the Committee on City Lighting, which meets over it and at another meeting or when it gets ready reports it back to the board and requests that the board instruct the Supervisor to order the light put up if the order is first approved by the Mayor. The board adopts the report of the committee and the Secretary notifies the Supervisor, who draws up the order to the gas company and hangs around the Mayor's office until he can get a hearing. Then the Supervisor tells the whole story to the Mayor about what the man who applied said and what the inspector said. Then the Mayor considers a decent length of time and signs the order. Then the order gets to the gas company, and the clizen gets the lamp when he gets it. This solution makes it a pleasant diversion for the Carondelet citizens to get lights. makes it a pleasant diversion for the Caron-delet citizens to get lights.

The Gas Decision.

The Supreme Court decision on the 90-cent gas bill leaves the situation, as far as bills are concerned, practically unchanged, as the gas companies are all held by agreements made in ordinances passed and accepted previous to the passage of the 90-cent bill. A member of the House of Delegates, who was one of the most active in the passage of the bill, said this morning: "We have found out pretty nearly where we stand now and just how much we have to say about what the gas companies can charge. It was shown at the time that bill was up that gas could be manufactured and distributed with a fair profit at 90 cents a thousand. Col. Find and several other authorities on the subject demonstrated that very clearly. We have to submit, I suppose, but at any rate we are no main unchanged."

The city has been paying the old rate right along with the understanding that there would be a rebate should the bill be sus-

The Council Committe on Union Depot has, so far, done nothing but listen to talk from the property owners in the vicinity of the site and from representatives of the railroad companies. As yet the committeemen have made no suggestions nor have they done anything of any special benefit to the city's interests in the case. Yesterday aftermoon considerable talking was done and objections entered by several persons. Mr. John H. Overall, representing the Merchants Bridge & Terminal Hailway, asked that a provision be put in the ordinance compelling the Depot Co. to allow the Merchants' Terminal to come in on equal terms with other reads. The representative of the Depot Co, said that satisfactory arrangements could be made.

The railroads, however, are doing a great deal of work outside of the committee meetings, and every city official who may possibly have to do with the case has been called upon and talked to.

For some reason unexplained the representative of the Depot Co. restarday afternoon wanted to have the report of Mr. Gayler, which was published in yesterday's Postparate, withheld from the committee. site and from representatives of the railroad

A Large Tract of Valuable Land at Council Bluffs, Io.

CLAIMED BY INDIANS.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Io., Dec. 16 .- A small band of Pottawattomie Indians arrived yesterday from the Indian Territory. They came here for the purpose of laying claim to a large tract of land which they aver legally belongs to them. In 1837 Stutely Wicks, with 100 young bucks, came across the country from Chicago and stopped at what was known as Chicago and stopped at what was known as Government Mill. Here they awaited the arrival of squaws and older members of the tribes and later entered the Indian Territory. All of them went except the wife of Stutely Wicks, who was given the land in controversy by the Government. She and her husband died, leaving two children who, with other relatives now claim the property which comprises 640 acres, a part of which is the Council Bluffs and Omaha Chautauqua grounds.

SHORT OF OFFICERS.

Why Liberty Evangelical Mission Lost

Two of Its Workers. The Liberty Evangelical Mission, 719 Frank lin avenue, is just now short of officers and will remain so until the next election, which takes place in January. A ripple of excitement was created at the meeting Sunday, when the resignations of E. P. V. Ritter, Treasurer, and E. S. Greenwood, Superintende Sabbath School, were both handed in the ormer to take effect immediately, while the former to take effect immediately, while the latter remains until January. Stories vague, but insinuating in their nature, as to the reason for these actions are in circulation, much to the annoyonce of the parties interested. One person said positively that the Mission had split. When seen by a Post-Disparch reporter this morning, Rev. E. T. Colman, manager in charge of the Mission, denied the reports and said:

"For two weeks past I have been confined to my bed with a slight attack of pneumonia. It was during my confinement that I received Mr. Ritter's written resignation. I wrote to him asking for the reasons for his action, but received no explicit statement in return. Mr. Ritter has been our treasurer for two years. The reason that I wrote him in regard to his resignation was because the letter stated that it was to take effect immediately."

"Has anything happened during Mr. Rit-

"Has anything happened during art all ter's term of office that would make him dissatisfied."

"The only incident that my memory recalls," answered Mr. Colman, "was when some remarks were made concerning the mention of a business, following Mr. Ritter's name in the annual report. Further than this nothing coming within my knowledge has happened to cause dissatisfaction."

"But how about the resignation of Greenwood?" was asked.

"Mr. Greenwood resigns to establish another mission in the western part of the city. He considers that he has spent all the time that he is justified in so doing with the Evangelical. Mr. Greenwood has been Treasurer, in fact, of the mission fund, Mr. Ritter only receiving and paying out the money for the rent of the building. The former keeps the Treasurer's books and pays all current by penses except the one named."

Mr. Ritter was found at the Famous and freely made a statement. He said that he resigned because he did not have time to attend to the duties devolving upon him.

"I have so many positions of the kind that I had not time to attend to them. They keep a me busy during my leisure hours and add to my work during my busy ones. I leave the mission with perfectly amicable relations with all concerned with the institution. Nothing unpleasant has happened, and the only reason for my resignation is the fact that I wish to be relieved of the work."

The Description on Which the Police Have Been Working.

ntity of the men who ran over Mis Augusta Tovell and inhumanly dragged her a stance of nine blocks, inflicting which caused her death, after days of great seems probable to remain fore mystery. The police have been unable to obtain any satisfactory results from their long and energetic investigation. The only thing seem that to work on was the description of the outfit which the men drove. It would seem that with a fair description of a horse and wagon the police ought to have no great difficulty in locating it, but the fact remains that they have been unable to do so. In the hope that some one may read it who knows of such a horse and wagon, the Post DISPATCH to-day gives in detail the description upon which the police have been working they had to work on was the description by a painter or plumber.

It has straight sideboard some eight or ten inches in height.

A has strif seat in the center of the bed.

A leather dashboard about eight inches high rests on the front of the bed.

The bed is either brown or black in color. The shafts, wheels, springs and running gear entire had at one time been painted a bright red, but wear and tear had greatly dimmed the color. The wagon showed signs of considerable hard service.

The horse was a dark bay about fourteen hands high and with shabby mane and tail. The hair was long and the animal appeared in poor condition. So stiffened were its joints that the negro, James, was enabled to keep pace with the horse for some distance, notwithstanding the fact that one of the men belabored the animal with a whip at every step. The above description is, furnished principally by James, the colored eye witness, who asserted positively that Hammond, one of the suspects, was undoubtedly one of the men who occupied the wagon. Another eye witness was Mr. E. C. Cushman and his description of the outfit differs materially in some particulars from James'. He, however, is not as positive about details as the colored man.

To the best of Mr. Cushman's knowl wagon was an ordinary box spring wagon of a pattern similar to those often used by sewing machine agents.

A The bed was about 7 feet long and 3 or 312

a The bed was about 7 feet long and 3 or 3½ feet wide.

An ordinary stiff box seat was placed a little forward from the center of the bed.

In front there was a leather dash-board. There were no side-boards other than those formed by the box-bed.

The wagon appeared to be in poor condition, being scratched and worn.

The horse was a rather small animal—more of a pony in appearance—and quite spirited. In this particular Mr. Cushman differs materially from the negro James, who insists that he ran along with the horse for some distance. Mr. Cushman says he was left far behind when he attempted to overhaul the rig. Of the men he is unable to give even the most general description.

Sale would be equalled in importance, vieing as it did with all the great sales in England and even excelling in general average the most recent one of prominence, namely, that of Lord Falmouth.

Seven months after the racing stable was sold Mr. Lorillard's entire breeding establishment was also disposed of at auction. This attracted buyers and breeders from all parts of the United States, and the total amount realized, viz., about $145,000, added to the $150,000 which the racing stable brought and the $24,000 realized from the yearlings, made the enormous total of $320,000 for one racing omething About the Belmont Stud and Stable - Champion Roberts Breaks a Record at English Billiards-Racing on Various Tracks—Sporting News.

New York, Dec. 16 .- The much-talked-of prize fight between Jimmie Kennard of St. Paul and Billy Murray of this city, 110-pound men, took place early this morning near Stamford, Conn., and was witnessed by 300 sports from this city and vicinity. The fight was for $1,000 a side. The men were in perfect form. Kennard was handled by Jack Murray. Frank Stevenson acted as referee Kennard began the fighting, Murray acting on the defensive, but up to the eighth round very little execution was done. The eighth however, was a rattler. It was give and take all through, and Murray had a shade the

After this there was a lull until the twelfth round, when there was another rattling to. Kennard had much the best of this round. He landed heavily on Murray's stom ach time and again, and had Murray groggy before the call of time. Murray planted many blows in Kennard's face during this round, but they lacked force. Both men were comparatively fresh when time was called for the thirteenth round. Kennard began rushing matters and put in some heavy blows. He soon had his man dazed, and before the round was half over he got in a stinger on Murray's jaw, completely knocking him out. About $3,000 changed hands.

and hardly a week passes now without some big match being played by the stars. W. J. Peall, who last month broke the record of the "spot shot" game with the enormous run of over 3,000 points, met W. Mitchell, a powerful expert, at the Royal Aquarium, Westminster, and was badly walloped in a spot barred match. It was an 8,000 point battle, and the men met on even terms. The English critics comment upon the game as follows:

"While Mitchell has brobably never played better at the restricted game, Peall has never played worse. Peall, by ordinary play, took the lead and kept it up to Tuesday night, but after that he fell away altogether. Mitchell passing him on Wednesday and increasing his lead, until on Friday night he was 2,103 ahead, at 6,668 to 4,565. Mitchell on Wednesday made a break of 337, which is the highest he has ever made spot barred, and in addition he scored 16 breaks of over 100, while Peall only five times exceeded the 100, being after the second day completely out of form. On Saturday Mitchell did not play very well in the afternoon, his only important runs being 74 and 59, while Peall, playing up in better style than previously, made 113, 107, 87, 85 and 72, and gained considerably, but in the evening the leader improved again, and Peall, seeing that he had no chance, did not trouble himself very much. Mitchell put together breaks of 129, 85, 46, 45, 41 and 35, and ultimately won by 1,842. Peall only twice made over 20 off the balls in the evening—82 and 51."

Egyptian Hall, Piccadilly, Champion At Egyptian Hall, Piccadilly, Champion John Roberts gave another entertaining display of his great skill in a match at the restricted game with Expert T. Taylor, making the high spot-barred run of the season. As usual, Roberts conceded big odds to his opponent, giving 4,500 in a game of 12,000. Roberts played in fine form throughout. He caught and passed Taylor on Friday, and finally won by 2,621 points. On Friday night the champion had a lead of 1,281 at 10,000 to 8,719, so that so far as the result was concerned, the match was a good as over but s.719, so that so far as the result was concerned, the match was as good as over; but despite this fact, there was a large company present on Saturday and Roberts, playing in the most dashing manner, was seen at his best. In the afternoon he first made an unfinished break of 170 into 189, and then followed on with 129, 134, 201, 103, and an incomplete 108, while Taylor's only noteworthy runs were 75 and 63. This brought the first portion of the day's play to a close with the totals in the scratch man's favor at 11,001 to 9,074. In the evening Taylor had few chances, and made scratch man's favor at 11,001 to 9,074. In the evening Taylor had few chances, and made but little use of what he had, while Roberts made chief breaks of 150 (including the 108 from the afternoon) 123, 290, 182 and 118, this last being unfinished. It is doubtful if Roberts ever played better than he did during this match, for on the first day he made a break of 546—the Highest spot-barred run this season—while besides he scored, among forty-three other three-figure breaks, 201, 240, 219, 207, and 211.

REFUSED TO SIGN.

THE "RABBIS' CARD" NOT UNANIMOUS-LY APPROVED BY THE RABBIS.

Several Declinations to Join in Locating the Hero of a Recent Story-A Congre gation's President Bitterly Condems the Idea. An unexpected and peculiar development in the movement begun by certain Jewish citizens of St. Louis, on Saturday last, in reference to the recent sensational story published about a nameless rabbi of the city, was brought out yesterday. The card, of which a literal copy was printed in the Monday Post-Dispatch, and which was intended to have the signature of every St. Louis rabbi in its request upon the paper publishing the story for the name of its hero, was circulated yesterday as stated among the occupants of the local Jewish pulpits, with the request that they sign the Instead of doing so, some of the rabbis seen declined to affix their names to the paper, giving various reasons for their action, the principal one being a disinclination to revive such a story by adopting a line of action which would inevitably add so greatly to the sensational element of the unfortunate affair. As a result of this policy of the majority of the rabbis, the effort to definitely locate the story affecting the moral character of one of their number, was virtually abandoned this morning and the request for the name of the alleged male principal in the affair resul it is said, in the expulsion of a pretty widow from a ladies' society of a jewish Church, will not be made. In addition to the disapproval of this proposed line of action thus expressed by some of the rabbis. the card also met with strong condemnatio by several lay members of the jewish relig lous community. The president of one of the largest local congregations in discussi movement this morning opposed it in the strongest possible terms.

"Suppose such a story had been published about a nameless prominent merchant of St. Louis. Would it have been necessary for all the local merchants to come out in a card protesting against the stain cast upon them individually and as a body, and demanding the name of the merchant about whom the story was originally written? Certainly not. Such action would simply have made the super-sensitive merchants supremely ridiculous, and would have resulted in noth-

JOTHING is so apt to cultivate the finer instincts, even in a very little boy, as tasteful attire. 'A sense of the proprieties of life begins to dawn upon him as soon as he commences to realize the difference between good taste and bad. He begins to understand that more is expected from him than from the boy who is uncared for -that his demeanor must correspond with his appearance. Isn't this a fact? Observant parents know it to be.

Why, then, not dress the boys stylishly, as well as their fathers? STYLISH CLOTHING FOR BOYS and CHILDREN! That's where Browning, King & Company excel. But style without durability is simply "a delusion and a snare." A suit that wouldn't do for a contortionist won't do for a boy. reviving of such a story, either from the pulpit or by publishing a card of denial and definand that the name of the anonymous rabbi be made public, is an exhibition of thin-skinned virtue that people might say was prompted either by the fact that one had a private skeleton in one's closet, or else was actuated by a desire to gain a little personal advertisement out of cain a little personal advertisement out of the unfortunate affair. Whatever might prompt such action, it would be unwise in so far that its main effect could only be the re-viving of the story afresh, and the cause of a received of mossin and sensational ruviving of the story arresh, and the cause of a renewal of gossip and sensational rumors that otherwise would have soon died away and been forgotten owing to the vague personality of the rabbi who was supposably connected with the story. I think you will find the majority of the Jewish community of St. Louis agree with me that such a revival of the story was altogether unwarranted and most certainly unfortunate and unwise."
